BIOGRAPHICAL SKETCH OF MRS RICHARDSON, BY C. OF NEW YORK.

Mistress of each soft art. with matchless skill, To turn and wind the passions as she will; To melt the heart with sympathetic wo. Awake the sigh and teach the tear to flow."

The brief existence of an actor's fame has become a proverb, works of genius, however glorious, without possessing in themselves a mechanism which renders them enduringly visible, can have no other assurance of a lasting condemn the noble tree for the rottenness of a few of its branches; as well might they declare religion a farce, and impiously mock at the existence of its divine head, because of the backslidings of its disciples. But these good people, who are so loud in their clamors upon the immorality of actors-who look upon theatres as "hot beds of iniquity," and upon all who frequent them as little better than weeds, worthy of such a soil-do not, perhaps, consider that by their own conduct, growing out of these very liberal and christian-like conclusions, they are themselves creating the evils, which they so strenously deprecate. No person can hope to obtain eminence as an actor, who has not within him some of that material which in all ages and in all countries, entitles its possessor to respect. The talents which qualify an individual for the stage, qualify him also in a like degree to a just apprecia-tion of what the world calls fame, and if he understands the value of this gift-surely he is competent to feel the importance of the world's regard. If, then, such ty, instead of holding out to him, in the paths of virtue, the encouragement of its countenance and support; -becomes an accessory before the fact, to the very errors which it Pretends to abhor.

They who blindly advocate a system which would shut out from society they who by their talents should be its no page of society so perfect, that it does not contain some blot to mar its whiteness. But it is not our object here, to enter the lists against the enemies of the theatre, or to exert our feeble efforts in upholding this great branch of our national amusement; with those who are liberal enough to judge honestly, it does not need a defence, and to those who are blinded by prejudice no argument can be clear. Joseph Jefferson the father of Mrs Richardson, came from London to this country in the year 1795, on the invitation of Mr C. Powell, then the manager of the Boston examine ethers, than it is to examine ourselves.

Art. 6. Every member of the Society shall pay due regard to temperance in cating and drinking; and in every thing else. But ne shall be his own judge what he shall be eat, and what he shall drink, and where withal he shall be clothed—while gluttony, and drunkenness, and tight-lacing. without the benefit of the elergy, or the votes or lectures of ed by the generation now passing away; as a man, his temperance society.

Art. 7. Every thing shall be called by its right name; which his talents adorned. Mr Dunlap thus speaks of Mr men shall not put bitter for sweet, nor sweet for bitter, nor | Jefferson in his estimate of the individual merits of the

" As an actor Mr Jefferson stands next-perhaps as an actor-he ought to stand first-but, place aux dames; where any doubt exists. He was then a youth, but even then an artist; of a small and light figure, well formed, to drink tea or coffee, cold water, buttermilk, or lemonade, as suits him best, or to chew or smoke tobacco or ing mirth to as great a degree, by power of feature, although handsome, as any ugly featured low comedian ever seen. The "Squire Richard" of Mr Jefferson made a strong impression on the writer; his "Sadi" "Mountaineers" a stronger, and strange to say his "Verges" in "Much ado about Nothing" a yet stronger."

Mrs Richardson was born in Philadelphia on the 2d November, 1812, and at the early age of five years left home for Boarding school. This school was under the charge of Mrs Oldmixon, a lady who is well remembered in New York as an actress of superior merit, long attached to the New York Company of Comedians; under the management of Mr Dunlap; and for many years previous when Miss George, one of the principal supporters of the Comic Drama at Coleman's Theatre, London.

The chances and difficulties of a theatrical life, were by a long experience made too apparent to Mr and Mrs Jefferson or countenanced by this society; but every member shall to induce them into a desire to behold their daughter followenjoy his own religion, and allow to all others the same ing its dangerous paths; she was consequently almost liberty he claims for himself, without being pointed at as denied the opportunity of even witnessing a stage performance, for many years. A predilection for the stage however Art. 11. Good society shall not be exclusively formed discovered itself at an early age, which was probably superout of the aristocracy of wealth, nor made out of the popularity of swindling speculators, or of civil or religious professions. It shall include the poor who are honest, intelliwith Mrs Richardson at this time, the strongest passion, Art. 12. The members of this Society shall seek to do which her parents observing, and wishing to foster, placed when reviled they shall not revile again; but they shall | Carr, for the purpose of so far perfecting her in this accomyears, introduced his protegé, to the public as a Concert Singer. The Musical Fund Society of Philadelphia, pleased with the talents she displayed, conferred upon her the distinction of honorary membership, in that Institution. Her studies were continued with Mr Carr until her fifteenth year, when the event occurred which gave to the American stage an ornament which it may well be proud to ac-induced to gratify it. Mr Jefferson, however, had fixed the night for his benefit, and was, in the mean time, taken so suddenly ill, that he doubted his ability to fulfil the expectations of his friends, by appearing on that evening; it was necessary that something should be done, and after much deliberation, and as the resource which, in his critical situation, he considered the most natural, he consented to the oft repeated wish of his daughter, and on the first of April, 1827, for her father's benefit, Mrs Richardson made her first appearance on the stage, as "Rosina," in the "Barber of Seville."

Theatre, as a stock performer, then under the control of her uncle, William Warren, and enjoyed great and deserved popularity. Upon the dissolution of that establishment she accompanied her father, and other members of his family in a tour, and from until 1831 to 1834 was the favorice of Baltimore and Washington audience. It is a matter of no small surprise to those who, in 1834 and 1835 witnessed the display of talent evinced by Mrs Richardson at the Park Theatre that her efforts had not need more generally appreciated at the South. Persons of high reputation at the Southern theatres, had often presentd themselves as stars before the New York public, and hall in more instances than one, thereby created a feeling on the face of the globe-

rather unfavorable to the high opinions thus previously formed of their abilities. Mrs. Richardson, on the contrary, was hardly heard of in New York, those only who had ac tually seen her seemed to be aware of her existence. With all deference to the good taste of the Southern critics, this neglect has been accounted for by supposing that the style of Mrs. Richardson, being of that quiet subdued character, which is the very opposite of what has been called the "American School"—she was considered too tame, and too reserved, to merit the encomiums which were so lavishly bestowed upon some others of her country

At the commencement of the season of '31, Mrs. Richardson entered into a regular engagement with Mr Simpson to play at the Park Theatre, as a stock actress, and on the 6th of October made her first appearance in New York in the character of "Ophelia." It was not, however, until the arrival of Sheridan Knowles, a few weeks after, and the performance of his play of "The Hunchback," himself as "Master Walter," and Mrs Richardson as "Julia," that the true merits of this excellent actress displayed them-

We shall not soon forget the effect of this night's performance; perhaps no female character in the drama had been so ably personated upon the New York boards as that of "Julia." Fanny Kemble had made the part her ownuntil Miss Phillips came to share the laurel with her. Both were great favorites in the part, and audiences were divided in opinion upon their individual superiority. When Mrs. Richardson, therefore, was announced to perform with the gifted author of this admirable production, there was a ge-neral feeiing of regret that neither Miss Phillips, nor "the Kemble' were present to give that brilliancy to the character which the occasion especially deserved. Mrs Richardson feeling strongly the peculiar disadvantages under which she would labor, by being brought into comparison with these celebrated Julias', opposed with all her elo-quence the expressed wishes of Mr Simpson, that she should attempt the part, under these annoying circumstances. But there was no remedy-no other substitute could be found, and the manager could not excuse her, if he would. night arrived, great expectations were, of course, excited, to wirness the strange spectacle of an author, and that author Sheridan Knowles, performing his own play; the au-dience had at least the charity to expect but little more than respectability in the representative of "Julia," and had made up their minds to be generous. The appearance ot Mrs. Richardson upon her entrance that night, carried with it such an air of modest humility, of retiring fear, that she seemed, as plam as actions could speak, to say, "I will do all I can to please you, if I fail be merciful." But she did not fail-great as was the admiration caused by the acting of Knowles, that feeling was increased and coupled with surprise, by the beautiful delineation of the character of "Julia." Mrs Richardson seemed to rise with the part; her confidence was restored by the discriminating applause of her hearers; she proceeded with increasing power, gaining new laurels at every step, until in the very effective scenes of the fourth and last acts, she appeared so entirely to identify herself with the character, that the audience, with unanimous peals of applause, gave her their full consent to enter into worthy competition with the best "Julias" of the English stage. Mrs Richardson became from this night forward, a decided favorite; the public were charmed with the delightful air of modesty which characterised her manner-with the chaste and natural truth of her portraits, and the apparent ease with which the greatest difficulties were surmounted. The deep sentiment of a serious drama, as Knowles has exhibited it in "Tell's wife"—in "Julia"—" Marianna," and the Beggar "Bess"; the tender pathos of a sister's affection-such as is contained in the simple character of " Cicely Homespun"; even the silent devotion of woman's love, as Shakspeare has drawn it in "Ophelia"-found in Mrs Richardson a faithful representative. Her tragedy was characterised by " sentiment," in the honest and no ble acceptation of the word; violent passion and cold heroic declamation, were the Scylla and Charybdis, which she equally avoided. In the light arch characters of comedy, Mrs Richardson exhibited an inheritance of the true spirit of her lamented father; there was a lurking soul of humor in her eye, which was a true barometer, showing nd quality of the character she represent So well did her appearance and action keep pace with each particular incident of the scene, that she seemed for the time really to feel every emotion of the fictitious personage, who thus for the time borrowed her powers of expression. Mrs Richardson must have possessed the faculty of abstraction to a degree equal to her wish, her own will seemed perfectly to command, not only her features, but her very thoughts, and while upon the stage, every feeling, not immediately belonging to the business before her, was, with her citizen's dress, laid aside pro

To be jealous of the fair fame of our countrymen, to feel proud of American talent, wherever it may display itself, and to exert our humble endeavors to perpetuate the memory of those who grace our history in the arts-argues the possession of no feeling which an American need blush to acknowledge-we would not eulogise talent, merely because it had its birth among us, nor depreciate it, beother that the foregoing slight sketch of the life of Mrs. R. is written. They who have often witnessed the exercise of the talents which we have thus slightly commented upon, will, it is hoped, find in this page only the expression of their individual opinion; those who enjoyed her society in private life, will perhaps wish they could have bee permitted to add to this sketch the tribute of their admiration and respect, and those who believe that no good cas exist in the profession or character of an actor, will, undoubtedly, continue to enjoy the same liberal opinion.

CORPORATIONS .- No. I.

We are not about to advance or defend any new doctrine in the science of morals or politice-to show how any machinery may be devised, constructed and put in motion, whereby the whole moral condition of a people, the whole political fabric of a country, may be changed in its texture, color and capacity in "the twinkling of an eye." These things may take place. But the mode and means whereby-we leave for others to invent and describe.

The tendency of the times is decidedly onward. And we, as a community or nation, have already arrived at such a degree of velocity in our onward march that it appears to us there is no small danger of coming into contact with some unforseen, or if seen, unheeded object, which may produce a most dangerous retrograde move-

The present is no time for the folding of hands; no time to float on in a dreamy security on the deep, broad current that is floating us on without learning something of the depth of its waters, its whirlpools and quicksands its windings, its termination. "The time must therefore come, (says M. de Tocquaville in his Democracy in America,) when North America will present the spectacle of one hundred and fifty millions of men mutually equal, belonging to the same race, having the same point of departure, the same language, religion, habits and manners, and among whom thought circulates under the same form and coloring.

Our country like a young, ardent, aspiring, grasping mind is already taking rapid strides and developing its wonderful resources. And like that mind it may go onward and opward, increasing in beauty and magnitude in the course that leadeth to honor and giory, or be plunged into a fearful and awful chaos of desolation and ruin. If we would realize the glorious prophecy of M. de Tocqueville, "the spectacle of one hundred and fifty millions of men mutually equal," (and this result is by no means impossible or improbable) should we not be actively and earnestly at work? Is there not, at the present time, much inequality in the moral, social and political condition of the people, even here, under the most liberal government

It is true we have no class of plebeians to kneel down with fearful humility, while the " most noble Colonna or But are there not those, and many such, Orsini pass by." who bow with a degrading humility to the car of mammon as it moves along with its splendid equipage? Are there not those, and many such, who cling with an unvielding pertinacity to many existing abuses, and who aid the enactment of laws, which in their influences go directly to produce not a people "mutually equal," but privileged classes and orders? These are questions which deserve the serious consideration of every well-wisher of his coun-

The intelligent foreigner, who has become acquainted with the state of society in other countries, and who has seen the effect of unequal and unjust laws in the building up of one class to the injury or otter prostration of another, may well rejoice at the social, political and moral condition of the people in this country; but the close observer, while he is ready to admit, that there is not a people on the globe who enjoy more of the blessings of a free government, of equal and just laws, will not deny but that there is still even here much inequality in the condition of the people, moral, social and political, and that the general tendencies of the times go to increase, rather than diminish, this inequality.

Leaving for the present, however, any further remarks upon this point, and intending those which we have al ready made only as introductory to the subject we have before us, we proceed to consider some of the principles contained in a pamphlet recently published, and the title of which we have placed at the head of this article.

The writer of the pamphlet before us exhibits deep research, and great familiarity with the subject upon which he treats. We think we discover, in the manly and vigorous style of the author, a well known political writer, with whom we have have had full communion, and whose opinions we have considered orthodox. And therefore we feel not a little diffidence (but a sense of duty, and the importance of the subject impel us to do so,) in advancing our own humble opinious in opposition to some of those expressed by the author of the pamphlet before us.

After giving a brief history of the origin of corporations in the old world,-and noted the changes that have been made, and the difference which exist between corporations, in the old world and the new,-the writer remarks that "Corporations in America may be divided into three classes, municipal, elemosynary, and business corporations. The first embraces our towns, cities, and the like; the second, hospitals, colleges, &c.; and the third, manufacturing, banking, railroads, wharfs, hotels, stage companies, and the like." It is to the views expressed in regard to the last class of corporations to which we dissent, and upon which we propose to make a few remarks.

Having already taken up as much room as we contemplated, at the present time, we shall defer any further remarks to future numbers, in which we propose to show that the opinions advanced upon this class of corporations, are untenable and falacious, and lead to dangerous

Reply of the President to the Committee appointed to present to him, in behalf of his friends in New York, the elegant carriage built of timber from "Old Ironsides:"-WASHINGTON, Feb. 22, 1837.

Gentlemen: Your address, just delivered, in behalf of a number of my democratic republican fellow citizens of the city of N. York, presenting to me the phæton made of the timber which formed part of the U. States frigate Constitution, has been received with feelings of the deepest sense of gratitude: and let me assure you that all the associations which attach to this mark of affectionate regard, conspire to render it peculiarly acceptable. Coming, as it does, from the republicans of the great emporium of our rising nation-a city which has so often welcomed, honored and contributed to support me, as one whom it was pleased to consider among the country's defenders-bearing with it, in the live oak of "Old Ironsides," of which it is composed, recollections of the glorious battles, and the storms which that gallant vessel rode out in triumph, while carrying abroad over the deep the constellation of republican stan which she never struck to an enemy-and bringing to mind the heroic men now no more, who have shed their blood on her decks in the cause of their country, and consecrated in immortal annals the fame of our infant Republic-I should be wanting to the high tone you ascribe to my character, if I were not prout of the noble trophy-I appreciate fully the value of the gift in the motives of the givers, and rejoice in the thought that, if the broken ribs of the renowned vessel which once bore our gallant tars to victory, are now destined to bear the wreck of an old soldier to his repose it has been my good fortune to give new and stout timbers to the ship, as the renovated Constitution, * which I hope may conduct, under her name and fortunate destiny, other naval heroes to future triumphs.

From the great skill of the builder and high cost at which the beautiful present you have made me has been wrought, it must be the finest specimen of this species of manufacture which our country has furnished. As such, I will take care that it shall be preserved, to gratify the curiosity of those who may come after us, and who may look at it as a sample of the fashion of the times; or, with higher feelings, consider it as a memento of the great civic triumph, to grace which shall be the first use in which it will be employed, or as a relic of the naval victories, through which those once borne by it gave renown to the flag of ANDREW JACKSON. our coutry. Messrs. Daniel Jackson, Gideon Lee, P. M. Wetmore,

W. Horace Brown, Frederick A. Gay, and others, committee of a number of the democratic republican citizens of the city of New York.

* The allusion, in the President's reply, to "the renovated Constitution," will be understood by all who remember that it was in contemplation to break up the frigate Constitution, when it was ascertained she was not sea worthy—that the President, however, determined otherwise, and that, under his orders, she has been admirably rebuilt.

no The Philadelphia Ledger, a neutral paper, thus alludes to the base falsehood which has been published by the New York Commercial Advertiser, and other leading whig papers throughout the country:-

Scandal .- A base imputation is travelling the rounds of the newspapers against the American minister at Ma-It is said that one of those profligate women who adorn the courts of most monarchies, and who has been the favorite of the Spanish prime minister Mendizabel, has been "taken under the protection of the American Eagle," and after ruining the protector, returned to her Spanish high functionary. We are confident that this wretched piece of gossip is false, so far as our minister is concerned, and we should think that our editors might be better employed than in defiling our country and its government, by retailing the gossip of European brothels. Besides this, there is something inexpressibly mean and contemptible in thus assailing a public functionary when abroad, and without the means of defending himself. But nothing is too sneaking for partisan polities.

The Constitution .- The whigs have always claimed, par excellence, to be the particular guardians of the Constitution-all their candidates for the Presidency were " the defenders of the Constitution "-but, finding that this hypocritical cant does not answer their ends, they throw off all disguise, and propose to make a new thing of "the glorious Constitution!" Noah, one of their prominent leaders, says we must have a new one or a revolution! Well done, Manassah!

The Hon. Alexander Porter, late a whig Senator from Louisiana in the United States Senate, has been elected President of the New Orleans Jockey Club. Porter and his fellows in the Senate, rode their whig poney to death. in trying to go ahead of the old Tennessee racer; we hope he will use the nags of the Jockey Club more prudently.

CONGRESS.

Wednesday, Feb. 22 .- In the Senate .- Mr Tomlinson from the Committee on Petitions, reported a bill ext officers and soldiers who have died in the service of the ountry, which was read and ordered to a second reading. The bill provides for widows who were such at the time of making their application, notwithstanding they may ave married again.]

Mr Tombinson, from the same committee, reported a bill to revive and continue in force the act for the relief of persons who received wounds in the revolutionary war, was read and ordered to a second reading.

Thursday, Feb. 23 .- In the Senate, the bill to appropriate for a limited time the proceeds of the public lands f the United States, and for granting lands to certain States, (Mr Clay's land bill,) was taken up, and on mo tion of Mr Clay, laid on the table, he expressing his belief that instead of a surplus, there would be a deficiency of revenue this year, if all the pending measures before Congress should be carried.

A bill to authorize the erection of a hospital in the city of Washington was considered, the blank filled with the sum of $50,000, and ordered to a third reading.

The Tariff .- The Senate proceeded to consider the pill to alter and amend the act imposing duties on imports. The motion pending being to strike out from the list of articles made free of duty, the item of "common salt." A of its visitors. ong discussion ensued upon this motion, and was going on when the mail closed.

The House resumed the consideration of the bill making appropriations for the naval service of the United States

The question being, on the motion of Mr Jarvis, to strike out the item of $400,000 for fitting out the ship of the line Pennsylvania, a long discussion took place, in which Messrs Jarvis, Pearce, of R. I. Reid, and Sutherland took part.

The item was ultimately stricken out and the same sum ($400,000) was allowed in addition to other sums appropriated for the purpose of building and equipping ten small vessels of war carrying from ten to eight guns.

Mr Dunlap renewed his motion to amend the bill by in serting an appropriation for the establishment of a Hospital at Memphis, and spoke, at length, on the subject. The motion was agreed to.

The bill was then ordered to a third reading.

A letter from Washington says that "the Presi dent's Levee on the 22d, went off in the most agreeable manner. The President received his guests in the Ambassador's Room, with his usual grace and benignity, but so great was the crowd, that, in his present weak state, he was able to remain only about two hours, when the Vice President did the honors for him, and in not a less pleasing style than the courteous old Hero himself. The East Room was opened and thronged with beauty-Foreign Ministers and their suites-United States officers, &c. fore a London audience-and as Pauline in the afterpiece &c. Here the big cheese was dispensed, and a most savory mammoth it was. The throng was immense, and all appeared happy and pleased. The General, it is thought, will leave for Nashville on the 6th of March. God bless him and preserve him for many years."

A Joint Committee of the Municipal Government have reported that-

"The present system for the removal and seclusion persons sick with the small-pox is not required for the health and safety of the community-that its operation is frequently cruel-that by it unnecessary alarm and confusion are frequently occasioned—and that it is attended with great useless expense. They therefore recommend respecting the Erie from Lloyd's List, as follows:-" The that the practice of removing from the city, persons affected with small-pox, should be discontinued after the first day 24th Dec.) was totally lost near the former port on the 1st of March next.'

"They regret however that it is not in the power of the City Council to discontinue it. At remove to them persons sick with the small-pox, when it can be cone without endangering their lives. Whether in the present state of public opinion on the subject, an application to the Legislature, for an alteration of the law, would be favorably received, is so extremely doubtful that the committee do not deem it expedient now to propose it. They cannot but hope however that the alarm and dread of this disease which has descended to us from other and distant times, will, at no very remote period be no longer felt, and that it will be managed as diseases of similar character are.

We hope that a petition will be gotten up immediately, requesting the Legislature to repeal the above law, and signed by every voter of Boston.

Mr C. H. Eaton .- This young gentleman after three very successful engagements at New York is now starring at Albany. The advertiser of the 24th, says-"Mr Eaton made his first appearance on Monday evening as Richard the Third, and we scarcely ever remember witnessing so successful a debut. His readings are classical and beautiful, and display great originality. The dying scene was certainly the most finished piece of acting we ever saw, passengers, 70 in number, were taken off by boats from and elicited as it deserved, most unbounded applause. On Thursday he played Shylock to Miss Charlotte Cushman's Portia."

POLICE COURT .- False Alarms of Fire .- On Saturday, two truckmen were mildly dealt with for crying "Fire!" on Friday night. The first was named Alexander Foss, He commenced the false alarm in Cross, and continued it in Endicott street, and, when advised by his companion, yelled the louder, but was secured by the Watch in season to prevent the Fire Department being made fools of. He was committed to jail, and fined $500, and costs, in the morning. In passing sentence, His Honor said, that it had been ascertained that every alarm of fire, which called the engines out, cost the city $5(10, for cleansing and repairs-to say nothing of the Department.

The second offender, was Ephraim Byam-case not quite so aggravated as the first-fined $2.00, and costs.

Notwithstanding the serious evil of a false alarm of fire, it is. with due deference to the Court, doubtful if it be an offen ce in law. The Revised Statutes are silent upon the subject - or the Index maker, who received something like a thousand do 1lars for his learned labors, has made an "out."

Queer business for a Christian .- In chap. 2, art. 2 of the Constitution of Massachusetts, it is provided, that no person shall be eligible to the office of Governor, " unless he shall declare himself to be of the Christian religion," and in the 7th article, he is authorised to put the inhabitants " in a warlike posture," and " kill, slay, and destroy," by " all fitting ways" all such persons as may " attempt or enterprise the destruction, invasion, detriment or annouance of this Commonwealth."

ENGLAND CROWN GLASS.—The New England Crown Glass Company have recently erected a new furnace and are manufacturing an excellent article. The Crown Glass is thick, pure and of excellent color. Its thickness gives it an advantage over all thin glass, which is liable to crack from contraction in cold weather. Its surface not being polished after being blown, retains its enamel, brilliancy and hardness, and is not liable to the objection which applies to Plate Glass, of being easily and permanently bedimmed by dust.

The New England Crown Glass being purer in color than any other Glass, is preferable for Stores, as it does not tinge the rays of light as they pass through it, and therefore white goods particularly appear to advantage; and it is peculiarly useful for Factories, as some minutes of light may be gained morning and evening, in consequence of the absence of color in this glass. The price of second quality is reduced from the rates heretofore asked.

PANTS NO COLLEGE, NO INSTITUTION, NO MO NOPOLY, NO CHARTER—HE BEING QUITE SAT ISFIED TO REST ON THE PATRONAGE OF THE PUBLIC FOR THE SUCCESS OF HIS GRAND-FATHER'S VEGETABLE UNIVERSAL PILLS-ESTABLISHED IN ENGLAND IN 1751.

Science should contribute to the Comfort, Health a 2 d Hap piness of Mankind."

N the 18th of May, 1835, these now truly celebrated Pills were first made known in the United States, although If were first made known in the United States, although in Europe they had been previously before the public nearly a century. The American public naturally viewed them with suspicion, but as on trial they were found what they professed, it was soon displaced by the greatest confidence. They have secured this character, too, under very adverse circumstances, having to contend with the base slanders promulgated by those interested in keeping mankind in a state of error, as regards the functions of their bodies. Dr Brandreth would here impress on his friends and the public generally, that however different may be the action of the pills at different however different may be the action of the pills at different times, that such different action arises not from any alteration in the pills, but from the state of the body they should always be persevered in, until the action is uniform—for they are an effectual assistant of nature, having the same kind of action on the human body that storms and hurricanes have on the air, or that the tides have upon the ocean-they puri fy. What so judicious as the copying of nature? We see when she wishes to become purified, that she puts herself in commotion, which has the purifying effect. And so we, to induce purity in our bodies, bring about a natural commotion by artificial means, and the experience has taught those who have adopted this course, and who for this purpose have used have nife the course, and who for this purpose have used hese pills, that they were in the right, because the result has teen sound health, or in other words, every organ has become restored to a state of purity consistent with its functions—and although there is many whose hodies are in such a state of debility and suffering, that all which can reasonably be expected is temporary relief—yet, nevertheless, many persons who have commenced with them under the most trying circumstances of bodily affliction, when every other means and medicine has proved altogether unavailing, have been restored to health and happiness from their use—and the consequence is, they are now recommended by thousands of per sons whom they have cured of Consumption, Influenza, Indigestion, Dyspepsia, Headache, Pauts, and a sense of ful ness in the back part of the head, usually the symptoms of Apoplexy Janudice, Fever and Ague, Bilious, Scarlet, Typhus, Yellow and common Fevers of all kinds, Asthma, Gout, Rheumatsm Nervous Diseases, Liver Complaint, Pleurisy, Inward Weak ness, Depression of the Spirits, Ruptures, Inflammation, Sore Eyes, Fits, Palsy, Dropsy, Small Pox, Measles, Croup, Coughs, Whooping Cough, Quinsey, Cholic, Cholera Morbus, Gravel, Worms, Dysentery, Deatness, Ringing Noises in the Head, King's Evil, Scretcla, Erysipelas, or St Anthony's Fire, Salt Rheum, White Swellings, Ulcers, some of 30 years standing, Cancers, Tumors, Swelled Feet and Legs, Piles, Costiveness, all Eruptions of the Skin, Frightful Dreams, Female Complaints of every kind, especially obstructions, relaxations, &c. 8900 testimonials have been received from individuals of the highest respectability. Call at Dr B's store and read the original letters, all proving the extraordinary power of Brandreth's make, that there is no necessity for any other medicine.

Although Dr B. has enumerated by name the above disease es, he is nevertheless of opinion with his grandfather, the celebrated Dr Wm. Brandreth, that there is only ONE DIS-EASE, an impurity of the blood, which by impeding the circulation, brings on inflammation, and consequent derangement in the organ or part where such impurity of the blood settles—and that it is the different appearances which this inflammation or derangement puts on, that have caused medical men to designate such appearances by various names, but which are in fact only the same disease, with more or less Dr Wm. Brandreth was so fully convinced of the truth of the above simple theory, that he spent 30 years in experiment and laborious research into the medicinal properties of the numerous plants composing the Vegetable King dom his object being to compose a medicine which should at once purity, and produce by specific action, a removal of all bad humors from the blood by the stomach and bowels, as by the continuation of the use of such a medicine, such humors are sure to be carried off, and the blood assumes a state of purity—and whoever takes these pills, and perseveres with them, will be satisfied that Dr W m. Brandreth fully attained his philanthropic object. It is now an absolute and known fact, that every disease, whether it be in the head or feet, in the brain or meanest member—whether it be an outward ulcer, or an inward abscess, are all, though arising from many causes, reducible to this one grand effect, namely, im-

Pills in removing diseases of the most opposite character from the constitution. They in fact prove, by the cures they purity of blood. In all cases they will be found a safe and simple remedy, yet all powerful for the removal of disease, whether chronic or recent, infectious or otherwise; and what makes them particularly adapted for this country, is that there is not the slightest liability to cold when taking them-indeed, the system is absolutely less susceptible of cold when under their influence, than at any other time;—therefore, in this climate, they are invaluable. Neither do they require change of diet or care of any kind In England, these pills have been the only medicine of many families for periods varying from forty to sixty years, and have always proved effectual in restoring health whenever an aberration from it has occurred.

In many cases where the dreadful ravages of ulceration laid bare ligament and bone, and where to all appearance no human means could save life, have patients by the use of these pills, been restored to good health—the devouring disease having been completely eradicated.

In consequence of the pleasantness of their operation, and the dose not generally being required to be more than four or tive pills, (merely keeping in view the drain upon the humors) they are fast superseding every other preparation of professed similar import. Cases may occur where it will be very proper to take twenty or even thirty or more pills—this must be considered with reference to highly inflammatory disease, or when great pain is experienced.

As Brandreth's Pills prevent Scarvy, Costiveness, and its consequences, sendaring men, and all travellers to foreign regions, should not be without them, in order to resort to on every occasion of illness.

T is undoubtedly well known, that Messrs N. In the manufacture and sale of the Fish Lamp, I supposed I was pursuing an honest and lawful calling. The Commissioner of Patents, who granted mine, (under the new law) is bound to refuse a Patent, if, on examination, it appears to be an infringement on any patent previously granted. But the Commissioner, in the full knowledge of his duty, granted my Patent, and the right of making and vending the Lamp. Do I then act unreasonably in making and vending them? Have I not the official decision of a legality constituted functionary, that mine is no infringement? Have I manifested a malicious intention to injure Mr Bacon in his rights? Is my case not unlike making and vending the same Lamp, or a similar not unlike making and vending the same Lamp, or a similar one, without a Patent? A N account of that most excellent Medicine prepared at Dr Loveman's Gilead House. Price 50 cents per bottle. Sold by appointment in Boston, at D. S. ROWLAND'S, 188 Washington street, Boston. "To administer to a mind diseased, pluck from the Memory

arooted Sorrow,
"Raze out the written troubles of the Brain, and with some sweet oblivious Antidote,
"Cleanse the foul Bosom of that perilous stuff which weighs upon the Heart."
Dr. LOVEMAN'S Balm of Gilead is universally acknowledged to be peculiarly efficacious in all inward wastings, loss of appetite, indigestion, depression of spirits, trembling or shaking of the hands or limbs, shortness of breath, and consumptive babits. It thins the blood, eases the most violent pain in the head and stomach, and promotes gentle perspiration. Ev the Medical Faculty this medicine is much admired being pleasant to the taste and smell, gently astringing the fi being pleasant to the taste and smell, gently astringing the fi bres of the stomach, and giving that proper tensity which a Canton Silk in cases (other silks in proper-ood digestion requires.

Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead is recommended to the weak, Straw Bonnets, in usus size boxes, the relaxed, and debilitated, as an agreeable and speed, native; and considered as a cordial, is essential to the comfort of ladies of fashion, being a preventive against cold, when taken before going out to parties, balls, routs or the play. It will enliven the spirits and invigorate the mind and body, and if taken after fatigue, it will with a few hours sleep, take away all languor consequent on broken rest, and give relief from every unpleasant sensation.

It is a most valuable remedy for such diseases as are attended with the following symptoms, namely—a great straitness ded with the following symptoms, namely—a great straitness of the breast, with difficulty of breathing—violent palpitation.

Of the breast, with difficulty of breathing—violent palpitation.

tions of the heart, sudden flasces of heat in various parts of the body—at other times a sense of cold, as if water was poured on them—flying pains in the arms and limbs, back and belly, resembling those occasioned by the gravel—the pulse very variable, sometimes uncommonly slow, at other times very quick-yawning, the hiccough, frequent sighing, and a sense of suffication, as from a ball or lump in the throat-alternate fits of crying and convulsive laughing—the sleep unsound, and seldom refreshing, and the patient often troubled with horrid dreams. Much has been said by interested indi-viduals against Medicines that are advertised, but there is a very important observation to be made respecting Dr Loveman's Balm of Gilead, that unless its operation was gentle's safe and efficacious, it could not have obtained the unexampled demand it has acquired.

NERVOUS DEBILITY

"Without Health we can enjoy no Fortune; Honors, Riches, and all other advontages are useless."

HIPPOCRATES. This Cordial has been uncommonly successful with young people who have the appearance and air of old age, who are pale, effeminate, benumbed, stupid, and even imbecile; whose bodies are become bent, whose legs are no longer able to carry them, who have an utter distaste for every thing, and are totally incapacitated. Where the stomach is frequently disordered, the body is weakened; paleness, hodily decay and emaciation succeed, and the eyes sink into the head. The virtues of Dr Loveman's Balm of Gileadere demonstrated, in gradienting the worst and most dangerous symptoms of neroradicating the worst and most dangerous symptoms of nervous debility, and nothing has tended so much to establish the fame of this medicine, as its certain success in those complaints which strike their roots so deep in the constitution, and are so fatal to the happiness of mankind.

"Hold the Mirror up to Nature."

Let those who are afflicted in the following manner reflect on the cause that produced such havoc upon the "wholesome appetites and powers of life:"—disordered stomach, dry cough, weakness in the voice, hoarseness, shortness of breath apon the least exercise, and relaxation of the whole system.

Those efficied with paleness language of the eyes, weakness upon the least exercise, and relaxation of the whole system. Those afflicted with paleness, languor of the eyes, weakuess of sight or memory, should take time to consider Linnæus's advice, that "youth is the important period for forming a robust constitution," and that "nothing is to be dreaded so much as premature excess." The foundation of a happy old age is a good constitution in youth; temperance and moderatio. at that age are passports to happy grey hairs.

For such as have violated these precepts, then, this healing balm is suitable—complaints included in the vague appellation of Nervous and Consumptive, are those for which it is peculiarly adapted.

In offering this medicine to the public, I can say with confidence that they will find great benefit by using it in all disea-ses recommended, as I am fully acquainted with the medical qualities, as they have been discovered by myself, and are ex-tracted from vegetables, and I can truly say, there is no earthly danger in using the medicine by any person, no matter how they may be afflicted. This medicine has been used by a large number of persons, and have been cured of diseases of a long standing, when all other medicines have failed. n23

Description of the Public.—Anacreon, the prince of ancient poets, the lover and the eulogist of the ladies, never forgot, in his odes, to mentiod of the teeth of pearl.

Ovid never for one moment lost sight of the "balmy breath" of his ladies, and his earnest recommendation to both sexes was ever to "keep your teeth elean, and your breath sweet." The ancients had the means of doing so. Anacreon's beauties were as noted for their flowing zones and their eyes of fire, as for their teeth of pearl and their breath of balm.

Ovid, who has taught us how to love and be loved, laid more stress upon the teeth and breath, than any other point—and verify these precepts are worthy of our practice.

It requires no pussing, no paragraphing, te render it uses as general as its effects are delightful. The ingredients are of a nature which cannot injure, and must beautify the teeth and sweeten the breath. The certificates of many of the ablest medical practitioners of this country will testify to the fact, and the innumerable recommendatory letters, from ladies and gentlemen who have used it are sufficient guaran-Hees for its worth.
